DR. BARCLAY GUILTY

Somerset Physician Convicted of Adultery.

The trial of the case of the Commonwealth against Dr. A. O. Barclay of Somerset, charged with adultery, attracted more attention than any other case tried here during last week's criminal court.

The evidence brought out during the trial revealed that on January 2, 1909, Dr. Barclay came to Mann's Choice in an automobile, in company with Miss Laura Shaffer, aged 20. They took supper there, then hired a team and drove to Bedford where they stopped at the Bedford House and roomed together during the night. They registered both here and at Mann's Choice as Otto May and wife, Pittsburgh. The next day they drove back to Mann's Choice where they took dinner, after which they left in the auto, going toward home on the pike. He left the girl with a family by name of Suter, near Roxbury in Somerset County. A couple days later he returned and took the girl to the home of a family by name of Carver about one-fourth mile from the pike, in the same neighborhood.

Edward Shaffer, a brother of the girl located her and took her home where she remained until August 21, after Dr. Barclay had been arrested a second time, when she left at night and has not been seen by the family since.

An action was brought by Edward Shaffer, the girl's brother, but the bill was ignored by the Grand Jury, the girl, though in town, was not called before that body to testify. Another action was brought by John S. Shaffer, father of the girl, and the Grand Jury found a true bill in September, but the case was continued at the instance of the defendant.

When the case came up for trial last week, the Commonwealth was represented by District Attorney Sell and Hon. J. H. Longenecker, of Bedford, and Virgil R. Saylor of Somerset, and the defendant was represented by former Banking Commissioner J. A. Berkey and A. C. Holbert, of Somerset, and R. C. McNamara of Bedford. Judge Longenecker and Mr. Berkey conducted the trial.

A motion to quash because certain papers and hotel registers had been taken before the Grand Jury was argued at length by the attorneys and finally overruled by the Court. This discussion the jury were not permitted to hear. When the case was ready for trial Dr. Barclay appeared in court for the first time.

The Commonwealth showed, in addition to what has already been related, that Dr. Barclay has a wife and two children; that he was the family physician of the Shaffers and that he was treating the young woman for rheumatism. He was identified by a number of witnesses as the "Otto May" of the hotel registers. Dr. Barclay did not take the stand in defense and practically the only defense was that a number of witnesses from Somerset, mostly officials and politicians, testified to his good character and his reputation prior to the coming out of the story of his trip to Bedford.

Judge Longenecker in his plea before the jury made a characteristic, logical, coherent and forceful address. Mr. Berkey's address has been favorably commented upon.

Saturday morning the jury brought in a verdict of guilty, when a motion was made for a new trial, which motion will be argued March 3. Dr. Barclay is under bail in the sum of $1,000.

Bridge Destroyed

A large flow of ice on Dunning's Creek last Friday afternoon, shortly after 5 o'clock destroyed the railroad bridge at Cessna. A temporary bridge had been constructed for use while the iron work was being placed on the piers of the old bridge, and some of the iron was in position. Three cars loaded with coal had been placed upon the temporary bridge to protect it. The temporary bridge with the track and coal cars and the new iron work all went into the creek.

Two crews from the main line arrived at Cessna Saturday morning, removed the wreckage and constructed another temporary bridge, which is now in commission.

Accounts Audited

The recent audit of the accounts of the Prothonotary and Register and Recorder shows the following:

The total receipts of the Prothonotary's office were $3,620.98. The expenditures for state tax ($397.70), clerk hire and office expense ($887.97), advertising accounts, etc. ($58.40), and Prothonotary's salary ($2,000), leaving a balance of $276.91, one-half of which goes to the county, the balance to the Prothonotary.

In the Register and Recorder's office the total receipts were $5,455.37, the expenditures $3,401.49, salary $2,000, thus leaving a balance of $53.88 to be divided equally between the county and the Recorder.

From the two offices the county received $165.39.

Parsonage Sold

The parsonage of the Reformed charge at St. Clairsville was sold Saturday afternoon to Mrs. John Beam for $850. It is the purpose of the Reformed charge to build a new parsonage in the early spring at Osterburg. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Zehring, has already vacated the parsonage and is temporarily located in rooms of Mrs. Whetstone in Osterburg until the new parsonage is ready for occupancy.

LEARN TO BE INDEPENDENT

Some Excellent Advice for Young Women.

The spinster lady looked around the group of pretty, well-dressed girls who were gathered about her tea table, and then said very earnestly:

"I wonder how many of you, my girls, could earn your living if thrown on your own resources tomorrow. What could you do Lily?" turning to a merry-faced girl at her right.

"Nothing but make wine jelly and fudge," was the rueful answer.

"And you, Edith?"

"Well, at a pinch I could teach music; but it would be pretty poor music, I am afraid."

"There is no call nowadays for poor teaching of any kind, my dear; so I am afraid you would not make much of a living. What could you do, Emma?"

"Oh I dabble at a good many things. I sing a little, paint a little, do fair embroidery and am pretty fair at chafing dish cookery. That is the sum total of my accomplishments."

"Well, you might with much care turn your embroidery and cooking to some use, but not unless you improved in both lines."

"How about you, Madge?" turning to a fresh-faced little maiden who had taken no part in the conversation.

"I? Oh, well, I have no accomplishments, but I can write on the typewriter like mad. I learned how to do it so as to help father with his articles last winter when his secretary was ill. I got interested in it and kept it up until father says I really am an expert."

"Good little girl! You are the only one who could put bread and butter in her mouth if every girl in the room awoke to find herself penniless tomorrow."

"But, dear Spinster-Lady, we can't all be typewriters. What would you have us do?"

"I would have every schoolgirl taught some practical branch so that she could support herself should the occasion arise."

"If you study music, study it thoroughly, so as to be able to impart your knowledge to others."

"There is nothing more pitifully helpless than the woman who is suddenly thrown upon the world and forced to support herself. None of you may ever be in that position, but in case it should happen I urge you to be prepared. Learn how to be independent."

CENSUS ENUMERATORS

Classification of the Compensation of Census Takers.

Washington, D. C. Jan. 22, 1910.
The varying wage scales in different parts of the country and the differences in the nature and extent of the local difficulties confronting the enumerators in the larger geographical divisions of the United States have influenced and guided U. S. Census Director Durand in the adoption of a classification of enumerators' rates of compensation, within the limits prescribed by the United States Census law enacted by Congress. The rates in general will be so adjusted as to give a slightly higher average amount to the enumerators than they received in 1900.

In this connection the directors has issued to the census supervisors a detailed statement of the classification of rates adopted for the compensation of enumerators in the Thirteenth Census, commencing April 15 next.

There are three general rates—the per capita, the mixed and the per diem.

The first and second general rates have five subdivisions each.

The per diem rates range from $3 to $2.50, $4, $4.50, $5, $5.50 and $6, and are to be paid for a day of eight hours' work.

For enumerators on the per capita basis, which will be that most widely used, the pay for each inhabitant is:
Class A, 2 cents; class B, 2 1/2 cents;
class C, 3 cents; class D, 3 1/2 cents, and class E, 4 cents. Such enumerators will also be paid for each farm as follows: Class A, 20 cents; class B, 22 1/2 cents; class C, 25 cents; class
D, 27 1/2 cents, and class E, 30 cents.
These rates are in each case 5 cents or more higher than those paid in 1900, when the range was from 15 to 20 cents. For each establishment of productive industry the rate for each class is 30 cents. For each barn and inclosure containing live stock, not on farms, the pay is 10 cents for each class.

Under the mixed rate, which is a combination of the per capita and the per diem, there are five subclasses alphabetically arranged, and the per diem is: Class F, $1; G, $1.25; H, $1.50; I, $1.75, and J, $2. For each inhabitant the pay is: Class F, 2 cents; G, 2 1/2 cents; H, 2 1/2 cents; I, 2 1/2 cents, and J, 3 cents. For each farm: Class F, 15 cents; G, 17 1/2 cents; H, 17 1/2 cents; I and J, 20 cents each. For each establishment of productive industry the rate is 20 cents for each class.

Secret of a Happy Life

We occasionally meet a woman whose old age is as beautiful as the bloom of youth. We wonder how it has come about—what her secret is.
Here are a few of the reasons: She knew how to forget disagreeable things. She kept her nerves well in hand, and inflicted them on no one.
She mastered the art of saying pleasant things. She did not expect too much from her friends. She made whatever work came to her congenial.
She retained her illusions and did not believe all the world wicked and unkind. She relieved the miserable and sympathized with the sorrowful.
She never forgot that kind words and a smile cost nothing, but are priceless treasures to the discouraged. She did unto others as she would be done by,
and now that old age has come to her and there is a halo of white hair about her head she is loved and considered. This is the secret of a long life and a happy one—Penna. School Journal.

What's in McClure's

A well-known novelist who withholds his name tells a most interesting and valuable story in the February McClure's of his experiences as a moderate drinker.

Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who recently told the readers of McClure's how psychology could be applied to commerce with beneficial results, tells how it could and should be utilized by young America in the choosing of a career; Xavier Paoli, "the Guardian of Kings," writes deligh-tfully of the courtship of King Alphonso and Princess Ena; W. H. Rideing contributes another chapter of his remembrances of noted writers; L. S.
Brownell tells of the great work Canada is doing for her farmers and Perceval Gibbon describes Louis Brennan's latest experiments with his mono-rail car. There are stories by Alice Perrin, Helen Green, George Kibbe Turner, E. B. Waterworth and Mabel Wood Martin. The number also contains another installment of Arnold Bennett's amusing satire,
"What the Public Wants."

When the Hair Falls

Stop it! And why not? Falling hair is a disease, a regular disease; and Ayer's Hair Vigor, as made from our new improved formula, quickly and completely destroys that disease. The hair stops falling out, grows more rapidly, and all dandruff disappears.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Ayer's

The little book in each package gives the formula of our new Hair Vigor, tells why each ingredient is used, and explains many other interesting things.
After reading you will know why this new hair preparation does its work so well.

A Valuable Book

One of the most valuable booklets that has come to our notice is being issued for free distribution by the Waverly Oil Works Co., of Pittsburg, Pa. This booklet contains 100 pages, and in addition to telling all about oils of every kind, it has about 70 pages devoted to tables and matters of general information, much of which is entirely new. It is of considerable value to engineers and mechanics, and one of these booklets should be on the desk of every business man.

A postal card request addressed to the Waverly Oil Works Co., at Pittsburg, Pa., will bring one of the books promptly.

The Insurgents Need a Lincoln

Ray Stannard Baker, after a careful canvas of the Middle West, writes about what the people in that section of the country think about the Insurgent movement in the February American Magazine. After stating his conclusions, Mr. Baker says:

"The insurgent movement is indeed torn between the timidity of not going far enough and the terror of going too far. Some shock, some coagulation, will yet be necessary to precipitate its uncertainties—to draw the scattered groups together, and point the place of attack. The movement is well supplied with Garrisons and Phillipses and Sumners. What it needs is a Lincoln."

God Give Us

God give us men! A time like this demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands.

Men whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;

Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor, and who will gogue

And scorn his treacherous flatteries without winking.

Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking!

Mi-o-na Puts the Stomach in Fine

If your stomach is continually kick-and sour food into the mouth, then you need Mi-o-na Stomach Tablets, the best prescription for indigestion

Mi-o-na stomach tablets give in-more; they drive out the poisonous gases that cause fermentation of food and thoroughly clean, renovate and strengthen the stomach so that it can readily digest food without artificial aid.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are guaranteed to cure indigestion, acute or

ANOTHER COMET SEEN

Should Not be Confused With Halley's.

A bulletin from the Harvard Observatory recently states that the new comet discovered in South Africa on the night of January 16 is "conspicuous to the naked eye." When discovered, its position was 19 hours, 50 minutes, 28 seconds, Right Ascension, and Declination 25 degrees, 9 minutes, 24 seconds south. The position of the sun at that moment was R. A.
19 hours, 53 minutes, 25 seconds, and Declination 20 degrees, 53 minutes south, so it can be seen that it is very near the sun, and it must therefore be a very bright comet. According to the reported direction and rate of its motion it ought soon to pass the sun and be seen in the evening sky. The fact that so conspicuous a comet should succeed in getting in so near the sun without detection is one of the things that passes comprehension, and can be accounted for only by the fact that the observers in the southern hemisphere are so few and hard worked they have not the time to watch for comets. This comet, should it become visible should not be confused with Halley's which will not be visible to the naked eye for some time yet. This last comet has already been sighted at the Daniel Scholl Observatory at Lancaster, having been seen in the great telescope as an exceedingly faint spot of light a little brighter towards the center. It's position just now is not very far west of the planet Mars, moving towards the sun. It will pass the sun the latter part of March, becoming a morning star, repass the sun May 18 and become quite brilliant in the evening sky.

Daily Thought

The real meaning of tact is thinking about others. It means considering what others will think and feel, instead of considering only what we ourselves think and feel.—Home Chat.

For indigestion and all stomach troubles take Foley's Orino Laxative.

It is the natural remedy for indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, bad breath, sick headache, torpid liver, biliousness and habitual constipation.
Foley's Orino Laxative sweetens the stomach and breath, and tones up the entire alimentary system. Ed. D. Hecker-man.

Words and Acts

Words are good, but they are not the best. The best is not to be explained by words. The spirit in which we act is the highest matter. Action can be understood and again represented by the spirit alone. No one knows what he is doing, while he acts rightly; but of what is wrong we are always conscious.—Goethe.

Quality Not Quantity

Prof. Creelman of the University of Maine says in agriculture it is not bigger farms, but better farmers; not the new varieties in crops and poultry, but better culture and better strains; not bigger and better implements, but a better handling of those we have; not more expensive barns, but more sanitary; not more cows,
but better ones.

It is a dangerous thing to take a cough medicine containing opiates that merely stifle your cough instead of curing it. Foley's Honey and Tar loosens and cures the cough and expels the poisonous germs, thus preventing pneumonia and consumption.
Refuse substitutes and take only the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Ed. D. Hecker-man.

HER PROPOSAL.

By MARION GOLDBERG.
(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

Marion Hathaway, though she was not interested in the rights of women, was deeply interested in the rights of a woman, and that woman was herself. Miss Hathaway was twenty-six years old and unmarried when it suddenly occurred to her that there was one right belonging to her that she had been denied, not by any law, but by the most imperious of all rulers, custom.

"A man," she said, "may say with impunity, 'I'm looking for a wife,' but let a woman say the same thing about a husband and she would be considered immodest in the extreme. Indeed, her statement would be held up to ridicule and would defeat her purpose to marry. Furthermore, a man may ask a dozen women one after another to marry him, while a woman is forbidden to ask even one man. Now, I'm not going to submit to such injustice any longer. I wish a husband, home and children. I know the man I should like to marry. I decline to angle for him. I'm going to assume with regard to him the same privilege he has assumed toward me. I shall propose marriage."

Mr. Archibald Howe was the man to whom Miss Hathaway decided to propose. He was thirty-two years old, doing a good business and of good standing both socially and as a citizen. Miss Hathaway had an income of $1,000 a year. In a business point of view the elements for a partnership existed. The question in the lady's mind was this: First, had the man ever thought of her as one he would like to marry; second, if not, could she lead him to so think of her? He was permitted to discover her feelings for him. Why should she not be permitted to learn his for her?

All this reasoning was well enough, but to put it into practice was another matter. Miss Hathaway winced at the first line. A brave way to act in the case was to send for Mr. Howe and make her proposal by word. Her feelings constrained her to do it by letter; but, after writing and tearing up some twenty epistles, she concluded that she must either "take the bull by the horns"—that is, make her proposal in person or not at all. Summoning all her resolution, she wrote him to call on her.

When Mr. Howe's card was handed her the next evening she caught sight of her face in a mirror. Dismay was written on every feature. She was a strong character, though with a tendency to enter upon innovations that only the concurrent opinion of large communities can effect. At any rate, she was determined and, having once put her hand to the plow, would not turn back. But it required ten minutes before her heart beat would subside to a normal rate, at the end of which time she descended the staircase and entered the drawing room. Her heart had recommenced its kettle-drum performance and her knees threatened to let her down on the floor. That woman's nature had something to do with the custom of proposals for the first time rushed upon her with great force. Mr. Howe rose, she mechanically extended her hand, he resumed his seat, and she sank on one end of a sofa.

"What can I do for you?" asked the visitor.

Miss Hathaway's reply was a shiver. "A matter of charity?" asked the gentleman after a pause to help her out.

"Well—yes—in a way."

"For whom or what do you ask aid?"

"Myself."

Mr. Howe looked surprised.

"I have sent for you, Mr. Howe," she continued, with every show of resolution, "in order that I may do something—something very disagreeable, and I wish you to help me."

"Something disagreeable?"

"Very."

"Is it something we can do together?"

"No; one or the other must do it."

"I shall be very happy to do it for you if I can."

"That's impossible."

Mr. Howe thought a bit before saying:

"If one or the other must do it, and I can't do it, I don't see but that you must do it yourself."

Miss Hathaway didn't look as if she could.

"Tell me," added the caller, "what it is and I'll see what I can do for you."

He rose from his seat and sat down beside her.

"No; I have resolved to do it myself, and I will."

"Proceed."

Miss Hathaway gathered her faculties for a beginning.

"Did you ever think of me—that is, in the friendship that has existed between us—has it ever occurred to you?"

She stopped.

Mr. Howe was looking at her intently. Her bosom was heaving; her eyes were like those of a hunted fawn. It occurred to him that he would like to put his arms about her, take her head on his shoulder and comfort her.

"I have freely resolved," she went on, with a gasp, "always to remain single."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. And I have thought that we might devote ourselves to some world's work together."

He gazed upon her, still intently, for some moments, then said:

"Yes, and that work will be to build up a home for ourselves."

She turned her face up to him lighted by a smile and said:

"There, I knew I could do it!"

THEY GROW HAIR

Certain Ingredients if Properly Combined, Stimulate Human Hair Growth.

Resorcin is one of the most effective germ destroyers ever discovered. Beta-naphthol is a most powerful, yet absolutely safe germicide and antiseptic, which prevents development of germ matter, and creates a clean, healthy condition.

Pilocarpine, although not a coloring matter or dye, is an ingredient well established for its power to restore natural color to human hair.

Borax, because of its well-defined softening and cleansing properties, is most useful in the treatment of scalp and hair diseases. Glycerine acts as a stimulant to the hair bulbs, and has a soothing, healing and nourishing influence. Alcohol is indispensable in medicine because of its antiseptic, stimulating and preservative qualities.

Resall "93" Hair Tonic is chiefly composed of these ingredients, which are compounded in a peculiar form, and we believe it is the most effective remedy known to medical science for scalp and hair troubles generally. We personally guarantee it to eradicate dandruff and scalp irritations and to grow hair, even though the scalp in spots is bare of hair, providing of course there is life and vitality remaining in the hair roots.

We want every one troubled with scalp disease, dandruff or loss of hair to try Resall "93" Hair Tonic. If it does not remove dandruff and promote a growth of hair to the satisfaction of the user, we will without question or quibble return every cent paid us for it. This guarantee is printed on every package. It has effected most satisfactory results in 93 out of 100 cases where put to a practical test.

Resall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely unlike and in every particular different from anything else we know of for the purpose for which it is recommended. We urge you to try it at our entire risk. Certainly we could offer no better guarantee. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Sold in Bedford only at our store,—The Rexall Store, F. W. Jordan.

Mrs. Catharine Way

Mrs. Catharine Way died at her home near Fishertown January 14, 1910, aged 76 years, two months and 25 days.

Mrs. Way was united in marriage with Thomas Way, who died about 13 years ago, about 55 years ago. She is survived by the following children: Webster, William, Samuel, Joseph, Mrs. Etile Hammaker, Mrs. Francis Hancock and Mrs. Annie Hoover. She is also survived by two brothers and two sisters, William and Alexander Berkheimer and Mrs. John Smith and Mrs. John Brown.

Mrs. Way suffered a stroke of paralysis last spring and had improved considerably, but a second stroke proved fatal. She was held in high esteem where known and her funeral was attended by a large number of people.

The funeral services were held on Monday in the Lutheran Church at Fishertown and were largely attended, Rev. H. W. Bender officiating.

You'll feel better after taking DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the safe, sure, pleasant, gentle little liver pills. If you would be sure of good results insist on DeWitt's Carbolicized Witch Hazel Salve, the original. It is good for big cuts or little ones, small scratches or bruises or big ones, but it is especially good for piles. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

RHEUMATIC FOLKS

Are You Sure Your Kidneys Are Well?

Many rheumatic attacks are due to uric acid in the blood. But the duty of the kidneys is to remove all uric acid from the blood. Its presence there shows the kidneys are inactive.

Don't dally with "uric acid solvents." You might go on till doomsday with them, but until you cure the kidneys you will never get well. Doan's Kidney Pills not only remove uric acid, but cure the kidneys and then all danger from uric acid is ended. Here is Bedford testimony to prove it.

Miss Mollie Spidel, 172 Spring Street, Bedford, Pa., says: "I have been greatly benefitted by Doan's Kidney Pills and consequently I do not hesitate to recommend them. Last fall kidney trouble made its appearance in my case and I suffered intensely from backache and rheumatic pains in my arms and limbs. I was also subject to dizzy spells and headaches and I was unable to get relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Heckerman's Drug Store. The contents of two boxes did me a world of good and I am now enjoying good health. I am grateful to Doan's Kidney Pills for the improvement they made in my condition."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. Jan. 28-29.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. It invigorates the entire system and strengthens the kidneys so they eliminate the impurities from the blood. Backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles are all cured by this great medicine. Commence taking at once and avoid Bright's Disease and Diabetes. Ed. D. Heckerman.

A Little, Low Tune
When you're a bit sad and the work goes bad,

And your thoughts won't flow like a stream,

And your eyes are blurred and your blood unstirred,

And you can't go on with your theme,

Don't kick your chair in wild despair,

Or wail like a lonely loon;

Just think of the joy that comes to the boy,

And whistle a little, low tune.

Don't whistle so loud you'll disturb the crowd,

Or startle the cat from its doze;

Don't whistle an air that will bring despair

On the faces of friends or foes.

But when you are glum, and the work won't come,

Don't think from success you're immune;

Just apprise your brain you're a boy again,

And whistle a little, low tune.

First Time on Record

A blind man, guided by a large and athletic dog, went down the street the other day. Just as they turned the corner the blind man's dog saw a dog it knew and darted forward in a way that threw the sightless mendicant to the ground. He was speedily assisted to his feet, however, by a waggish passer-by, who remarked that he had heard some remarkable stories of the feats performed by dogs, but this was the first time he had ever known one to pull down the blind.

Our Indebtedness to Wit

A laugh, to be joyous, must flow from a joyous heart; but without kindness there can be no true joy. If we take into account the numberless glances and gleams whereby wit lightens our every-day life, I hardly know what power ministers so bountifully to the innocent pleasures of mankind.—Archdeacon Hare.

Don't Sham

Plain truth will help you to save money, avoid heartaches and add to your self-respect. An honest mind makes an honest environment. An honest environment helps to make an honest mind. In a similar way if one deliberately chooses the thing that is a pretentious fraud, whether it be a garment, a gem, a degree or a picture, one's moral fibre will be twisted.

Hence, as the pinnacle of our folly we get a sham standard of right living.

It is better to live in a sound cottage than a rickety villa; better to wear a solid silver ring than one of "rolled" gold; better to buy a good stuff dress than one of adulterated or sham silk; better to have anything, however plain, that can never disgrace one or harm the mind by telling a story of fraud and pretence, than a thing that is intended from the first to make people believe it other than it is. Better to avow your income to one hundred a year, and that you can't afford to give parties, than to acquire headaches and unpaid bills by trying to rival your neighbor, who by good luck, or something else, has a larger income.—Woman's Life.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

INDICTMENT QUASHED

The indictment against the Press Publishing Company (New York World) charging Joseph Pulitzer with criminal libel against Theodore Roosevelt, President Taft and others, was quashed in the U. S. District Court in New York on Wednesday.

Judge Hough ruled, in substance, that the statute upon which the indictment rested was not sufficient in authority, or, that the Court had no jurisdiction. The decision is of international interest and is in part as follows:

"It is charged here that the crime of sending libelous matter through the mails is punishable at the place of destination of the libelous matter. If it is so held that the offense of libel on Federal territory is a crime cognizable in the Federal courts, the question is a broad one. In this case, we have an alleged libel that was published in New York City and sent out into Orange County, N. Y. But we find that in the distribution made in Orange County, it happened to be disseminated at West Point, a territory ceded to the Government, and therefore the action comes up in this court.

"It cannot be denied that by the same act a crime may be committed cognizable by the state and nation, but this affords no reason to confine the punishment of the offender to one jurisdiction. The law which has been invoked here is, I take it, simply a territorial convenience, and therefore, in this case, if any crime has been committed, it is to be regarded rather as an offense against the State of New York, which happened to be committed on Government land, than an offense against the Government under the statute."

The details of this suit were given in The Gazette at the time of its institution.

It will be remembered that when the matter of the construction of an Isthmian Canal was taken up by the U. S. the Panama Canal property, on which a canal had been partly constructed by a French company, could have been bought for about $6,000,000, but the engineers sent by the Government to examine that route and the Nicaragua route reported in favor of the latter. Meantime, it was alleged, the old Panama company sold their holdings to what was called the New Panama Company of which one William Nelson Cromwell was the promoter, and in which Charles P. Taft, brother of the President who was in Roosevelt's cabinet at the time, and Douglas Robinson, a brother-in-law of Mr. Roosevelt, were claimed to be interested.

A revolution was stirred up mysteriously and just as mysteriously there happened to be some U. S. troops handy and the independence of the rebellious section was recognized, despite the well-established principle of International Law that a rebellious section shall not be recognized as independent of the mother country until such rebellious section shall have proved its ability to maintain its independence. Then followed the purchase of the property by the Government for $40,000,000—despite the report of the engineers in favor of the Nicaragua route.

The quashing of this indictment is on a matter of jurisdiction and further action will, it is thought, be taken by the Attorney General which may throw light upon why the Government selected the Panama route;

how our gun boats happened to be on the ground when the "tempest in the teapot" took place; why $40,000,000 was paid for property which had been offered for $6,000,000, and why the independence of Panama was recognized.

HECKERMAN LETTER

Visits Great Metropolis During Furious Snow Storm.

New York, January 23, 1910. Well, well, of all the weather that we have had, hereabouts for ten days, 'tis a caution. First some ten inches of snow, then sleet and rain, but it is most all gone now. Why men stalled, horses stalled, and the most laughable thing was to see the autos stuck in the snow. I could stand here in my room and see some fifteen or twenty all in a row on 31st Street and none of them able to go or come. Then the surface cars were all balled up so that one never knew when he would get to the end of the journey. Why, I was four long hours going fifteen blocks. I could not help myself and tried to keep everyone in the car in a good humor. We only had six horses in the car and about seventy-five people. Some had seats; others had none. You never saw such packed cars in all your life; I never did and I have seen some that were slightly loaded.

One could not walk; the snow was deep and the wind blowing 40 miles an hour. This all, however, gave employment to thousands of men. The snow had to be shoveled on piles and hauled away. Some worked but no one hurt himself at it. Now, whether they were weak for want of food or were born tired I did not know, but they worked so slowly that almost each one took a nap between the shovels of snow. The city paid them $1.75 per day and these laborers, if you call them such, paid some one else $4 to get the job. Graft, yes, pure, plain and so simple that any of Miss Bain's pupils would figure it out; but it leaked out and now each of the foremen is hunting another job. Think of a poor devil who has a family at home or in some shack, all hungry and cold, being asked to pay to get a few days' work shoveling snow! It makes my blood boil to think of it.

The snow storm cost the city of New York a million dollars. All the snow was carted away somewhere. The city has about 5,000,000 people and here is Dad among the bunch, doing his best to get a bunch of orders. 'Tis hard work but my orders this week have been for over 3,100 boxes and bunches of p-nuts.

While out on the street the past week I have seen many very ludicrous things. One of them was a young lady arrested for wearing male attire. Poor girl! I pitied her and if I had had twenty-seven cents in my jeans I should have gone her bail. She was arrested on Eighth Avenue, and says she, until recently, always found her masculine attire most comfortable. She crossed the ocean as a cabin boy, smoked cigarettes or a pipe, and all without detection. In short, everything went along smoothly until a woman fell in love with her and this other woman is twice her age. The boy-bird said her name was Marian Gray. She was fair to behold, especially in the eyes of this middle aged woman who was deceived by the disguise and was completely captivated by her manly appearance. Naturally the affection was not returned. She told Marian that if he did not marry her she would make his whole life very hideous for him. She would not give her name to anyone and when asked to do so smilingly said, "No, I think not, she has treated me very cruelly but I shall not tell her name;" (twas this woman who peached on Miss Gray, who is now wearing female attire for the first time in ten years).

New York has thousands of police officers; yes, and many of them are the scum of the earth. Why they drink, club and rob if it comes their way. Only the other day I was on an elevated going up town; the car was crowded much like the horse cars that I referred to above. Well, a nice-looking young man was on the platform of the car, as were many others; when we stopped at Eighty-First Street a man in gray clothes ordered him off the platform. This was a special officer employed by the elevated. The man refused to move; in fact he could not well do so, when the officer reached over the gate and grabbed the fellow and hauled him off amidst the hisses of all within sight. Of course I lost all then, but the next morning I saw in the papers an account of the muss. This I could readily recognize from what I saw, and in the report as in print the officer was hauled up before Commissioner Baker and his gray suit taken from him with a severe reprimand. Of late very many such cases have occurred and Mayor Gaynor has taken the matter up. He has in his private office heard the reports of many men, women and even children as to the clubbing policemen. Some of these officers have been summarily dismissed from the force and some have been prosecuted for assault and battery. The Mayor threatens to take the night sticks away from all the police force, as was done once before some years since. Why, many of these blue and gray coats think when they get on the police force that they are cock of the walk and no one dare crook a finger at them. The Mayor promises a general overhauling of the police and ridding out of the unworthy ones. Now, if he could only get a whiff of their breath I don't think many would stand the test.

I was in Newark the other day. Nothing strange in that, but to hear of their arresting everyone caught spitting on the sidewalk and saying ten days or ten plunks for each offence. This was new to the writer. The city has several hundred plain clothes men walking the streets watching for you and me whose necks were not long enough to squirt into the gutter, and whenever they see one who falls, arrest him and show their star. That settles it. Why, the day I was there it rained and the poor fellows did not want to get wet by stepping from under the shelter to spit into the gutters and would spit in their pockets sooner than run the chance of a cop in the crowd seeing them and giving them a ride in the hurry-up wagon. With all their care and watchfulness over one hundred were arrested that day. Whether they paid out or went to the coop I do not know.

They do not arrest or even try to do so a merchant for selling a cigar on Sunday. Eh! Whilst I have been here a week I have been so busy that I have not been in a single store and to but one five-cent picture show, and in that they had the life of Camille before the audience and it was a great lesson. I leave this p. m. for Stamford, Conn. Please send me The Gazette to Castle Square Hotel, Boston, and much oblige.

Yours truly,
M. P. Heckerman.

The Stimulus of Rebuffs

Hard conditions, desperate circumstances, great poverty and hardships have ever developed the giants of the race, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. The resources, the powerful reserves, lie too deep in many people to be aroused, awakened by any ordinary conditions or circumstances. These people are like the great Maximite shells that can be thrown about with impunity, that children may play with, but which require the terrific impact caused by being fired through the steel armor of a warship to explode them. It takes a great crisis, a tremendous emergency, to explode the giant powder in many people.

Some natures never come to themselves, never discover their real strength until they meet with opposition or failure. Their reserve of power lies so deep within them that any ordinary stimulus does not arouse it. But when they are ridiculed, "sat down upon," or when they are abused, insulted, a new force seems to be born in them, and they do things which before would have seemed impossible.

Origin of Tory.

Sir Walter Scott's explanation of the origin of "tory" as "give me" is not quite the same as that of other inquirers. According to a high authority, the word is Irish for a "pursuer" and was at first given to moss troopers, who for their own villainous purposes pretended to be on the side of the crown and the constitution and the rights of property and in that disguise haunted the bogs of Ireland, robbing the inhabitants in the name of the king. About 1680 those who "contended for the extreme prerogatives of the crown" had this contemptuous term applied to them by their opponents, and thus we arrive at the meaning of today. Macaulay points out as a curious circumstance that "whig" and "tory" originally applied as a term of insult should so soon have been assumed with pride. An odd circumstance is that two great English parties should have taken their titles the one from the bogs of Ireland and the other from the lowlands of Scotland.—London Times.

Gilbert Islands Tipple.

Neither tea nor coffee is drunk in the Gilbert Islands, but liquor named karafee, or toddy. It is the juice of the coconut tree, from which it is drawn daily at sunrise and sunset. To obtain it the natives climb up the tall trees and while extracting it keep up a constant yelling to let those below know that they are at work. The sap when fresh is a harmless and delicious beverage, but after it has been kept a day or two fermentation sets in and it becomes intoxicating. Karafee does not, however, fly to the head, but a man who drinks it to excess loses the control of his legs. However, when this befalls a native he has sense enough to remain indoors and shows his face to no one, for if his chief should ever hear of it he would be tried and sentenced to hard labor and a heavy fine. In former days a native found intoxicated was tied to a tree and received a hundred lashes, the blood fairly streaming down his back. Besides this, all his lands were confiscated to the king forever.

Didn't Call Him Names.

Mickey's mother visited a young schoolteacher on the east side the other day, says the New York Sun. As nearly as she could make out from the mother's splutterings the teacher had been calling Mickey "names that no lady would use and no decent mother would stand for." The teacher thought hard, but could recollect no time when she had given way to an impulse to call Mickey dreadful names. "Sure but you did," insisted the mother. "I don't know what you meant by it, but scurvy elephant is no nice name to call a boy. That's what he said you called him—a scurvy elephant."

"Scurvy elephant! No," said the teacher in a relieved voice; "I didn't call Mike a scurvy elephant. I called him a disturbing element, and I reiterate my statement."

Mickey's mother went home partially satisfied, but not quite sure that the teacher hadn't been calling her names too.

To the Highest Bidder.

Even tobacco buyers have their troubles. One of them, who represents a New York house, met a Connecticut man who had sold his crop. The buyer was amazed at the price the man said he had received.

"You have been cheated," said he. "You are entitled to more money than that."

"Well," replied the farmer, "nothing has been paid to bind the bargain."

"Then I'll give you 5 cents more a pound and a bonus of $100 for the crop."

"Agreed," exclaimed the farmer, and he received a check for the full amount.

"Oh, by the way," observed the buyer, "who was my rival in this transaction?"

He was informed.

"I might have known it," said he sadly. "That man is my partner!"—New York Press.

The Code of Hammurabi.

The so called "code of Hammurabi" was brought to light during the excavations on the site of Babylon and is looked upon as being one of the very oldest if not the oldest of all known records. It is believed to be at least 1,000 years older than the Mosala law. King Hammurabi reigned over Babylon about the year 2300 B. C. and the laws he inscribed on the clay tablets for the most part no doubt long antedate that time. The Mosala law is supposed to have been given to Israel about 1200 B. C., and it would appear, therefore, that the Hammurabi code has the much greater antiquity.—New York American.

"The Good Fellowship of a Good Watch"

There is something in the good fellowship of a good watch that is always felt by the owner that is, in words, hard to define. Ask your friend, who has a good watch—a watch that keeps perfect time—how much he will take for it and he will laugh at you. It is because there is that attachment to it—that knowledge of its faithfulness that places it above its actual intrinsic value. New Paris

January 26—Rev. S. J. Wilson is holding a successful revival meeting at Helixville.

Rev. W. F. Conley will commence a protracted meeting in the Evangelical Church Thursday evening, January 27.

Misses Nettie and Viola Long, of Windber, were guests in our vicinity not long since.

Mrs. Thomas Buskirk of South Dakota and Miss Jennie Henderson of Johnstown were the guests of their uncle, Esby Barefoot, last week.

Esby Barefoot has purchased a farm near the old Dunkard Church of William Beckley, Sr., and will move on the same during the month of March.

We were wrongly informed about F. A. Sterner, the lumberman, purchasing the farm of Silas Shaffer. Mr. Sterner sold his sawmill and engine to Noah Rodgers of Somerset County.

The people of this place were permitted to observe Halley's comet Tuesday evening, January 25. Only a few who have reached the age of 75 years or more have had the pleasure of beholding this celestial body prior to this time. Its last visit, in which it was visible to the inhabitants of the earth, was in 1835. It is located near the western horizon, a little north of the planet Venus and set (so to speak) on the above date about 7 p. m.

A Curious Error.

The Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale told how a curious error crept into the translation of the Lord's Prayer into the Delaware Indian tongue. The English translator had as an assistant an Indian who knew English. "What is 'hallow' in Delaware?" asked the translator. The Indian thought he said "halloo" and gave him the equivalent. Therefore the Delaware version of the Lord's Prayer reads, "Our Father, who art in heaven, halloosed be thy name."

Papa Did the Best

Odd evidence against an inattentive schoolboy was delivered to the parents of an urchin the other day by his teacher. It seems that while the history class was in session the youth, instead of paying attention to his teacher, was looking up toward the ceiling with his mouth wide open dreaming. The teacher did not disturb him until after he had drawn a sketch of him in that position. After the class was dismissed the teacher mailed the sketch to the parents, adding a caption which explained all. Next day the boy was unusually alert.—New York Sun.

Photographing Falling Snow

"If you would picture falling snow, cover your camera," says Woman's Home Companion for February. "That is all there is to it. See that the nearest flakes which fall in front of your lens are from six to ten feet distant; a pair of umbrellas, an open shed, taking the picture from within a room looking out of a window, a hundred means suggest themselves. Give an exposure of the slow snapshot variety, a fifth or a tenth of a second, of course with the lens as wide open as it can be, rather than the fastest exposure you can make. Choose a storm of slow-dropping, heavy, large flakes for such work, not the swift, fine, driving snow, unless indeed the wind is whirling it up in clouds, when stunning effects can be made. This, and the use of orthochromatic film, is all that is necessary for a snow picture."

Thirst for Novelities

The curse of modern life—the thirst for the new, the rage to get out of the old skin—is the blight on our literature, our art, our drama, our manners—even our morals. It is passion without aim, or conviction, or feeling—a mere restless itch to get free from old habits and to get into something uncommon, it hardly matters what, if only it can announce itself as "unconventional."

Heavy, impure blood makes a muddy, pimply complexion, headaches, nausea, indigestion. Thin blood makes you weak, pale, sickly. Burdock Blood Bitters makes the blood rich, red, pure—restores perfect health.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson V.—First Quarter, For Jan. 30, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. v, 17-26, 38-48—Memory Verse, 44—Golden Text, Matt. v, 48—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

There are some prominent facts which we must keep in mind in all Bible study—the Bible is the history of salvation; salvation is of the Lord; salvation is of the Jews; known unto God are all His works from the beginning of the world. He worketh all things after the counsel of His own will, and the eternal purpose which He has purposed in Christ Jesus is that all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God and the whole earth be filled with His glory. To that end He is steadily working, and in all the different parts of this book, which is forever settled in heaven, we have some phase of the working out of this eternal purpose. The whole Bible story points onward to a time when "a king shall reign in righteousness, * * * and the work of righteousness shall be peace" (Isa. xxxii, 1, 17). Our blessed Lord was always talking about this kingdom and giving samples of the power that would be manifest even in the bodies of His redeemed when the kingdom shall have come. Between His resurrection and ascension during those forty days He spoke of things pertaining to the kingdom of God.

In this discourse, spoken to His disciples probably in the hearing of the multitude, He describes the righteousness which will be fully manifest on earth when the kingdom comes, a righteousness of the Ten Commandments, which He here teaches us refers not only to outward acts, but to the thoughts and intents of the heart. He alone of all who have ever lived on earth manifested the righteousness of the law perfectly in His life. He could truly say, "I delight to do Thy will, O my God; yea, thy law is within my heart" (Ps. xl, 8).

Having no sin of His own, for He was without sin, He bare our sins in His own body on the tree and became the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth (Rom. x, 4; II Cor. v, 21). Anything less than the righteousness which was manifest in the Lord Jesus Christ cannot stand before God, and as no one is able perfectly to keep God's holy law it is written, "By the works of the law shall no flesh be justified." The law shuts our mouths concerning our own righteousness and points us to Christ that we may receive Him as the righteousness of God most graciously provided for every sinner (Rom. iii, 19-24; Gal. ii, 16; iii, 24). Yet there are many in so called Christian lands, members of churches, who, being ignorant of God's righteousness, are ever going about to establish their own righteousness (Rom. x, 3). None of those can in any case enter into the kingdom of heaven (verse 20). According to James ii, 10, breaking one command breaks them all, for the law is one. From Rom. vii, 7, we infer that Paul thought he had kept the Ten Commandments until in the light of the tenth he saw himself a sinner and guilty. Love is the fulfilling of the law (Rom. xiii, 10), and as we can only manifest our love to God by our love to our fellows, therefore with the Lord Jesus Christ as our only example we must remember His words in John xv, 12, "Love one another as I have loved you." Also in I John iv, 11, "Beloved, if God so loved us we ought also to love one another." When the Lord Jesus lives in us fully and His spirit has full control of us we will manifest even here in this age the love that is kind to those who are unthankful and evil, who curse and hate and persecute and despitefully use us. Any one can love those who love them, but to love one's enemies is not possible to the natural man. As a poor Indian once said, "This Indian can't do it; God must make a new Indian." When we have seen our guilt and that all our righteousnesses are only filthy rags and have truly received the Lord Jesus Christ, then we are before God in Christ, and He is made unto us wisdom, righteousness, sanctification and redemption (I Cor. i, 30). We are justified freely by His grace, justified by faith, justified by His blood, and there is no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus, but it is all to the end that the righteousness of the law may be fulfilled in us who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

The light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ having shined in our hearts, we must let the light shine through us to His glory that others may receive Him too. Verses 44, 45, do not teach us that by loving our enemies we become children of God; but, having become His children by receiving Jesus Christ (John i, 12), we are manifestly such in the eyes of others only when we act as such. We are not only sanctified, but perfected forever by the one great sacrifice of the Lord Jesus (Heb. x, 10, 14), and now we are to walk not as others who are still in the world, but ever aiming at a more perfect manifestation to others of the love of God to us, for if we love one another God dwelleth in us, and His love is perfected in us and He is seen in us (I John iv, 12). It is only as we understand the kingdom, which is righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost, that we can walk worthy of it (Rom. xiv, 17; I Thess. ii, 12) and manifest in our lives the life of Him who when He was here in His humiliation revealed the Father. Dwelling in Him we dwell in love, and His love will constrain us.

Home Course In Live Stock Farming

X.—Handling Dairy Products.

By C. V. GREGORY,
Author of "Home Course in Modern Agriculture," "Making Money on the Farm," etc.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

THE importance of cleanliness in milking was mentioned in the preceding article. In addition to taking care that no dust or dirt falls into the milk, it should not be allowed to stand in the stable any length of time after milking. Milk absorbs odors rapidly, and butter that is "off flavor" is the result.

The milk room may be in connection with the barn or at the well. The latter, if not too far from the barn, is the best place. If the milk room is at the barn it should be separated from it by a tight passageway, with a door at each end to exclude all odors. The milk room should have windows enough to provide plenty of light and ventilation. The floor should be of smooth cement. If the walls are of the same material or of brick coated with cement they can be more easily kept clean than if they are made of wood. The floor should be scrubbed often enough to keep it perfectly clean, and the tank should be cleaned out frequently.

Use of the Hand Separator.

Within the last few years the hand separator has come into general use on farms where six or more cows are kept, doing away with the old gravity system of raising cream. With the separator all the cream can be removed, which is impossible by any other method. The skim milk can be fed to the calves warm and sweet, which is a great advantage. There is less fat in the skim milk, but this element can be supplied to the calves a good deal more cheaply by flaxseed than by butter. There may be much less space in the milk tank, as only the cream will need to be kept there. Where a creamery is patronized a great deal of work is saved by having only the cream to haul.

In selecting a separator the most important point to look to is the ease of cleaning. There is a great deal of difference in separators in this respect. Some are so complicated that it is almost impossible to wash all parts thoroughly, while others can be so completely taken apart that washing is an easy task. It is not the number of parts to a bowl that makes a separator difficult to keep clean, but the ease with which all these parts may be separated, so that they may be reached with a brush.

Some of the other points to consider are convenience, capacity and durability. The capacity will depend largely upon the number of cows kept. It is always better to get a machine too large than too small. The latest models of nearly all makes of separators are made so that the top of the supply tank is little more than waist high. No other kind should be bought. It is a useless waste of energy to lift heavy cans of milk five or six feet high every night and morning. With these low built makes the skim milk and cream cans may be placed on the floor, so that they will require little lifting.

The Importance of Cleanliness.

Serious objection has been made to the cream separator on the ground that it lowers the quality of the cream and butter. In many cases there is ground for this complaint. Unless absolute cleanliness is the rule the cream is liable to be of poor quality. The milk and slime in the bowl are the best of food for injurious bacteria, and these multiply rapidly when the separator is not kept clean. Never rinse the bowl with cold water and leave it until the next milking. It cannot be thoroughly cleaned in this way. In cold weather a rinsing with cold water, followed by half a gallon or more of hot water, will do at night. At least once a day in winter and every time the machine is used in summer the bowl should be taken apart, washed well and thoroughly scalded. Be sure to remove every particle of grease and dirt. Use a brush, never a rag. A rag is difficult to keep clean and often forms a home for bacteria. The so-called "dish rag flavor" is often found in butter, due to the use of a rag in washing the separator. Neither should a rag be used to dry the bowl or other tinware. In starting to wash the separator and other milk dishes cold water should be used first to remove the milk, as hot water scalds the casein and makes it difficult to remove. Thorough rinsing should be followed by a thorough washing with hot water and a final rinsing with boiling water. If the dishes are then set on the back of the stove they will dry quickly without rusting.

Handling the Cream.

As soon as the cream is separated it should be cooled down to about 50 degrees as rapidly as possible. This can be done by putting it in a tank of fresh well water. Do not keep the cream too long before taking it to the creamery, not over two days in warm weather and three or four in cold. Good butter cannot be made from old cream.

It hardly pays to make butter on the farm unless special customers can be obtained. Creameries have multiplied until there is one within easy shipping distance of almost every farm. The organization of co-operative creameries has kept most markets on a strictly competitive basis, so that the prices paid for cream are usually as high as the market will warrant. These large creameries are usually equipped with all the latest appliances for buttermaking. They are in charge of experienced buttermakers and are in shape to turn out a uniform product that will sell for much higher prices than the ordinary run of farm made butter.

Use of the Tester.

No dairy farmer can afford to be without a Babcock tester. A complete tester, consisting of a tester, milk and cream bottles and a supply of sulphuric acid, can be purchased for about $5. With a tester the farmer can test his cows, as described in article 8, at home. He can test the separator to see that it is working properly. If the bowl is wobbly or the machine out of level a considerable amount of butter fat may be lost in the skim milk without the dairyman knowing anything about it. If you churn your own cream a tester will enable you to test your buttermilk and determine whether or not you are losing much butter fat in this way. If you patronize a creamery your tester will come handy for keeping a check on the tests at the creamery. Most creamerymen are honest, but that is all the more reason why the dishonest ones should be run out of business. Underreading the test 2 or 3 per cent will add greatly to the profits of the creameryman and cannot be detected unless the patrons have testers of their own.

The Babcock tester is simple to operate. The sample of milk to be tested should be thoroughly tested by pouring from one jar to another three or four times. A sample is then sucked up into the pipette. By putting your finger on the top of the pipette you can let the milk run down until it just comes to the mark on the neck. Then run the milk into one of the test bottles. Number the bottle to correspond with the sample. The sulphuric acid used is what is known as commercial sulphuric acid. The acid and the milk should be at the same temperature before mixing. If they have been in the same room for a few hours they will be all right. Fill the measuring glass up to the mark with the acid, taking care not to get any on your hands or clothing. Pour the acid carefully down the side of the bottle and then mix it thoroughly with the milk by giving the bottle a rotary motion. The sulphuric acid combines with the albumen and casein and leaves the fat free.

Set the bottles in the tester as soon as the acid has been added. When all the bottles are filled the tester should be turned at a uniform rate of about 100 revolutions a minute for five minutes. This brings the fat to the top of the liquid in the bottle. Hot water should then be added carefully to bring the fat up to the neck of the bottle. The machine is then whirled for two minutes. Then more hot water is added to bring the fat column up into the graduated neck of the bottle. After this the machine is whirled for one minute more, and the test is ready to read. The reading should be done before the fat hardens. Each of the small spaces on the neck of the bottle represents two-tenths of 1 per cent. The number of spaces through which the fat column extends indicates the percentage of fat in the milk.

In testing cream special bottles must be used. A small balance is needed to weigh out the samples, as cream cannot be accurately measured. Nine grams are used for each sample, and as much more hot water is added. Only about two-thirds as much acid is needed as for milk.

Lord Southey's Guillotine. The most eventful action of an eccentric man was Lord Southey's cool arrangement for suicide by means of a guillotine. He had a magnificent one erected in the drawing room of his house in the Rue du Luxembourg at Paris. The machine was of ebony inlaid with gold and silver, the framework carved with artistic skill; the knife, sharp as a razor, was of polished and ornamented steel. Preparing for death, his lordship had his hair cut close, and, clothed in a robe of white silk, he knelt upon the platform under the knife before a mirror and pressed the spring which should release the knife. But the spring failed to work, and the would-be suicide decided to give the guillotine to a museum instead of making a second attempt to end his life. It is said that he made an annual pilgrimage to see the guillotine until the end of his life.

How the Chinese Preserve Grapes. To preserve grapes the Chinese cut a circular piece out of a ripe pumpkin or gourd, making an aperture large enough to admit the hand. The interior is cleaned out, the grapes placed inside and the cover replaced and pressed in firmly. The pumpkins are then put in a cool place, and the grapes retain their freshness for a long time. Careful selection of the pumpkin is requisite, the common field pumpkin, however, being well adapted for the purpose.

HER TALL REBEL.

By MARIA D. FUREY.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

On Holborn street in London is a row of buildings that any sightseer passing on top of a motor bus would recognize at once as having been left among modern buildings from a past age. It is called the Staple Inn, and here Dr. Johnson wrote his "Idler."

One morning after the battle of Culloden, which ended the rebellion in Scotland led by the pretender, three Scotchmen who had been captured in arms against the king were being conducted past the Staple Inn to the Tower. A block stopped the sad cortege. One of the prisoners, MacDougal, was a very tall man, overlooking his fellows, and with singularly handsome. A lady looking from the window of the inn called out to him:

"You tall rebel, you will soon be shorter by a head."

MacDougal turned a pair of large, sad eyes upon her and asked deferentially:

"Does that give you pleasure, madam?"

"It does."

"Then, madam"—taking off his hat and making a low bow—"I do not die in vain."

The way having been cleared, the procession passed on, and the lady withdrew from the window.

MacDougal, soon after arriving at the Tower, was about to be led out to execution when the lieutenant received an order for a stay. Several days passed, the prisoner expecting death all the while, when the door of his cell was opened, and the lady who had spoken to him from Staple Inn entered. He looked at her in astonishment.

"We have met before," said the lady.

"I remember you well, madam. But I am at a loss as to the cause of this visit for I shall soon be headless, and a headless man cannot serve a lady."

"Nevertheless your height will be improved."

"And would you prefer me shorter?"

"I would. You are too tall."

"You seem interested in cutting me down."

"I am interested in you."

"As Herodias was interested in John the Baptist."

"Your head, I admit, has recently seriously concerned me."

"I regret that I have not the power to give it to you. I can leave it to you by will, but I do not think the courts would regard the bequest of a rebel."

"Doubtless there is some fair maid who would prize your heart."

"If its possession would give you pleasure you would be welcome to it, too, could I bestow it upon you."

"I would not deprive another of a coveted possession."

"There is none other who would prize it. But pray tell me to what may I attribute the honor of this visit?"

"A desire to see more of so good mannered a gentleman."

"I rejoice that my manners please you, madam, and regret that my height does not."

"But you will be shortened."

"My life will not be lengthened."

"You will not die in vain."

"True; I shall have the consolation of giving you pleasure."

"Say, rather, the pleasure of giving me pleasure. My pleasure is yours, is it not?"

"Will you not show your appreciation of my devotion by leaving me to prepare for an end which may come at any moment?"

"Is my presence obnoxious to you?"

"At any other time it would be a pleasure to me."

"But you wish to be alone."

"Only on account of the nearness of death."

"Will nothing ruffle your politeness?"

"Nothing will affect my appreciation for so charming a woman."

"Why did you rebel against King George?"

"I believed Scotland would be benefited by Charles Edward."

"The king is a good man."

"Doubtless."

She handed him a slip of paper. He ran his eye over it. It read:

Let Lady — have access to her tall rebel, and he hangs to her.

GEORGE R.

Something like a faint smile dawned upon the lips of the prisoner. "His majesty," he said, "is very good to me to permit you to visit me."

"He has been more kind to you than that."

Drawing a piece of parchment from her corset, she handed it to him. It was a pardon, beautifully engrossed within a decorative border. MacDougal looked up at his visitor for a moment, then sprang toward her and flung his arms about her. Under cover of heartless banter she had been talking the language of love. He had not interpreted her correctly, but now he understood. She suffered—no, returned—the embrace.

"Why did you rejoice at my approaching death?" he asked.

"Because you were an enemy of the king."

"And what changed you?"

"Your manners."

"H'm! Rather a woman's weathercock nature. And you alone have saved me?"

"No; I have been assisted by the Earl of Southland and all the county of Ross."

The two passed out of the Tower together. History says nothing of the future of either, though they were real characters.

Below are a few extracts culled from a lecture at a Farmers' Institute held in a nearby town. This article should be read by everyone.

"I believe we should build up our own communities and enable our home merchants to give us a good market for our products by standing by them. We can buy all that we need and as cheaply by doing business at home, and thus make a better market for our products.

How can we expect the country stores to thrive and grow if we farmers refuse to trade with them, but send our money to some distant city which does not interest us or help us in the least?

While there is always a standard price for some kinds of farmers' produce, how can we expect the country merchant to buy our eggs, butter, poultry and other products so vital to us all if we do not reciprocate to the country merchant?

Is it not an object for us to build up our market town and make markets for our products? Does it not add to the value of our land to be able to point to some thriving nearby town with a ready market, schools and church advantages? Is not land so situated worth more than if it is isolated and distant from everything and everybody?

By standing by our home merchants we are standing by each other, and by standing by each other we will thrive and prosper together.

Is it to our interest to build up great houses in distant cities? I make the broad assertion that while some things on the surface may seem cheaper than the prices of our home merchant, after we have scrimped ourselves to get the cash, and paid freight and other charges, and paid for things we do not need because they seem cheap, we are actually out of pocket; we are simply gulled by cormorants.

If we keep depressing and destroying our home merchants, we will find after a lifetime that our farms are in an isolated region and have not increased in value as they would if we had made a market at our very door.

I know farmers who are always in debt to their local merchants, while their cash has gone to the railroad for freight bills and to the catalogue houses for articles which do not rank as either luxuries or necessities, but simply as leg-pullers to gull the unsophisticated.

How would you appreciate selling your stock and products on credit and the purchaser's using his money to buy similar articles in a distant market for cash?

Unless we can stand together and refuse to build up and develop this cormorant which preys upon us, we not deserve to have thriving towns for markets or the advantages which always come from being surrounded by a business community."
